

BPL is a very bad idea due to its interference potential to licensed radio services in the HF and lower VHF spectrum. There are other technologies that are much better suited to delivering broadband internet that do not pose the interference potential to vital HF and lower VHF radio communications.